GG. OUTLET ACCESS FOR ELECTRIC CAR CHARGING

Until such time that electric vehicle charging stations are installed at Shilshole Bay Marina, the outlets on lamp poles in the parking lot will be available for marina customers to charge electric vehicles. To access the locked outlets, marina customers must apply for an access key and pay a $100.00 monthly charge. The charge is based on 40kWh charge per day for 30 days/month. The customer will receive an Electric Vehicle Charging Permit that must be posted in the vehicle on the side of the car's electrical outlet. In order to terminate this monthly charge, the access key and Electric Vehicle Charging Permit must be turned in. If a customer loses an outlet key, there will be a $100 fee to rekey all the outlet covers and issue new customer keys. Vehicles that are found to be accessing light pole outlets without the posted charging permit may be unplugged by marina staff.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

X. ELECTRIC CAR CHARGING

Until such time that electric vehicle charging stations are installed at Shilshole Bay Marina, the outlets on lamp poles in the parking lot will be available for marina customers to charge electric vehicles.

- Access will be with an issued key after application and hold harmless agreement has been filled out and approved.
- The customer will receive an Electric Vehicle Charging Permit that must be hung from the car's rear view mirror when charging.
- Liveboard use will be prioritized, as there will be a limited number of outlet access permits issued.
- One charging area will be designated for motorcycles use only, and not charged a fee.
- Customers may ask for free reasonable access for emergencies, such as battery charging, or for reasonable residential uses such as vacuuming a car.

In order to terminate this monthly charge, the access key and Electric Vehicle Charging Permit must be turned in. If a customer loses an outlet key, there will be a substantial fee to rekey all the outlet covers and issue new customer keys. Vehicles that are found to be accessing light pole outlets without the posted charging permit may be unplugged by marina staff.

Abuse of the program by any of the authorized users may result in their moorage termination and suspension of the entire outlet access program, with all outlets being secured. Abuse in this case will include providing outlet access to individuals not listed on their application, or trying to circumvent the system by only paying for the first month and not paying in subsequent months. If the program is cancelled, fees will be refunded based on the day the outlets are excluded from public use.

Once the electric vehicle charging stations are installed the monthly outlet access fee will be discontinued and the outlets will be locked except for one-off requests for use. Keys must be turned in after the program ends.
